RETIRING FACULTY

DR. ROY GARDNER
DEPARTMENT HEAD AND ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR
SCHOOL OF PROFESSIONAL STUDIES

Dr. Roy Gardner is retiring from Rogers State University following 21 years of distinguished service as a member of faculty in the Department of Technology and Justice Studies. He has served as Department Head since 2006 and served as the SAP University Alliance Faculty Coordinator. His teaching experience in higher education spans 42 years having served as a member of faculty at Houston Baptist University and the University of New Orleans prior to joining RSU. He holds his Doctorate of Philosophy and Master of Science in systems science from Michigan State University, Master of Art in mathematics from State University of New York at Stony Brook, and Bachelor of Science in mathematics from Pratt Institute.

DR. MARY MACKIE
DEPARTMENT HEAD AND PROFESSOR
SCHOOL OF ARTS AND SCIENCES

Dr. Mary Mackie is retiring from Rogers State University following 20 years of distinguished service as a member of faculty. She has served as a Professor of English and Literature at RSU since 2002 and has taught multiple sections of over 20 different courses and topics during her tenure. Her expertise is found most evident in American, African American, and Native American Literature. She spent six consecutive years as a Writer in Residence at the Writers Colony at Dairy Hollow in Eureka Springs, Arkansas and during her academic career has published 16 articles, poems, and short stories. Dr. Mackie was awarded the 2011 Pixley Excellence in Education Award, which is the highest honor bestowed upon an RSU faculty member. She has served the institution on nearly every faculty committee, was the faculty advisor for the campus newspaper The Hillpost, served as poetry editor for the Cooweescoowee which publishes creative works by regional and national authors and artists, has directed multiple productions for the RSU Theatre program, and has served as the Head of the Department of English and Humanities since 2015. Her colleagues and the institution have grown heavily dependent on her vision, perspective, and unashamed willingness to speak her opinion on broad range and scope of expertise, and are appreciative of her passion for the university, the department, and her students. She holds her Doctorate of Philosophy in English with emphasis in Native American Literature and Women's Writing from the University of Oklahoma, Master of Arts in creative writing and literature from Rivier College, Bachelor of Arts in philosophy from the University of Massachusetts, and a Bachelor of Arts in English from Russell Sage College.

RETIRING FACULTY

ROYA NAMAVAR
DEVELOPMENTAL MATHEMATICS INSTRUCTOR
SCHOOL OF ARTS AND SCIENCES

Roya Namavar has served as an Instructor in Developmental Mathematics at RSU since 2001. She is a graduate of Northeastern State University and has spent the last 40+ years as a math instructor at RSU, Tulsa Community College, Sylvan Learning Center and Accelerated Learning Inc. in Tulsa. She is a member of the National Mathematics Honor Society Kappa Mu Epsilon and the International Honor Society in Education, Kappa Delta Pi. She has supported efforts at RSU during her tenure on the Assessment Committee, the Faculty Development Committee, and the Enrollment Management Committee. In the last 7 years Ms. Namavar has been instrumental in transitioning RSU's mathematics remediation to a co-requisite model saving students both time and finances as they satisfy their required remediation. She is a consummate teacher of mathematics in every sense of the moniker. She is patient but rigorous, making challenging concepts easier to understand, and prides herself on preparing students for subsequent mathematics course work. During her 20 years at RSU she has been the most collegial and wonderful colleague and friend. She holds a Bachelor of Science in mathematics from Northeastern State University.

COMMENCEMENT SPEAKER

REGENT ANITA HOLLOWAY
UNIVERSITY OF OKLAHOMA BOARD OF REGENTS

Anita Holloway was appointed by Governor Kevin Stitt in February 2020 to the Board of Regents for the University of Oklahoma, Cameron University and Rogers State University. A native of Stuart, Oklahoma and a tribal member of the Citizen Potawatomi Nation based in Shawnee, Oklahoma, Holloway is a senior audit partner with Ernst & Young LLP, a global leader in assurance, tax, transaction and advisory services, operating in more than 150 countries. She is currently the partner-in-charge of world-wide audit and professional services to a Fortune 500 company and was formerly the Tulsa office managing partner. In addition to her role on the Board of Regents, Holloway serves on the Board of Advisors for each of the University of Oklahoma Price College of Business and the Price College Energy Institute and was a 2015 inductee into the University of Oklahoma Arthur B. Adams Society. She is a frequent speaker and guest lecturer for Price College, twice presenting the keynote speech at the Energy Executive Management Program closing dinner and serving as a panelist at the Social Responsibility and Business Ethics Forum on the topic of transparency and financial reporting. In addition to her involvement at OU, she currently serves on the board and is the former Treasurer of the Tulsa Regional Chamber of Commerce and previously served on the board and the audit and finance committee for the Tulsa Area United Way. She was recognized in each of 2019 and 2021 as one of Oklahoma's "50 Making a Difference" Woman of the Year honorees and is a graduate of Leadership Tulsa Class 48. Holloway graduated with highest academic achievement and honors from East Central University in Ada, Oklahoma in December 1992, earning a Bachelor of Science degree in accounting with a math minor and receiving the ECU School of Business Distinguished Graduate Award. In 2022, she received the East Central University Distinguished Alumni Award. Holloway believes strongly in the impact education can have on an individual's life.

PRESIDENT LARRY RICE

Dr. Larry Rice is the 14th President of Rogers State University. An Oklahoma native, President Rice has more than 40 years of experience in higher education.

President Rice began his academic career in 1979 as a full-time faculty member at RSU, which was then known as Claremore Junior College, where he taught classes in criminal justice, psychology, and sociology.

He was Director of the Applied Science Division at Rogers from 1979 to 1986 and Associate Director of Academics for the Rogers campus in Pryor from 1986 to 1991.

He received a doctoral degree in education from Oklahoma State University, and master's and bachelor's degrees from Northeastern State University.

He wrote his doctoral dissertation on "Eighty Years of University Preparatory Education on College Hill," a history of the institution presently known as RSU.

Before he was named President of RSU, he served as Executive Assistant to the President at the University of Tulsa. At TU, Rice was responsible for government relations and the Presidential Scholars Program. He joined TU in 1991 as a member of the advancement staff and served as Interim Vice President for Advancement from 1997 to 1998 and Director of Public Affairs from 1991 to 2004.

He served the citizens of Oklahoma as a representative of House District 8 from 1986 to 2004.

PRESIDENTIAL MEDALLION

The Presidential Medallion is the official symbol of the Office of the President at Rogers State University. Traditionally, the medallion is bestowed upon a new President to represent a transfer of the responsibility of office and an obligation to promote and maintain the values and ideals represented by the institution.

The medallion features the official RSU seal, which was designed in 1999 shortly after the Oklahoma Legislature renamed the institution Rogers State University and provided it with a new mission to seek accreditation as a four-year university. The university received accreditation as a baccalaureate degree granting institution in 2000 from the Higher Learning Commission.

The official RSU seal features the name of the institution at the top and the university's credo and guiding principles, Tradition, Innovation and Excellence, on the lower oval. In the middle is a representational drawing of iconic Preparatory Hall, the first building erected on the Claremore campus in 1911, two years after the institution was founded in 1909.

The seal was designed by Kate Northcutt, M.S.

TRADITION OF ACADEMIC REGALIA

The costume of those in the inaugural academic procession has a specific symbolism dating back to at least the 14th century. In 1895, academic institutions in the United States adopted a code of academic regalia, which has been revised from time to time. The regalia of institutions in other countries varies, and there is not a worldwide code, but the basic elements are present in all academic costumes.

GOWNS

The associate and certificate candidate gown is silver in color and features a traditional design. The bachelor's gown is black and has a pointed sleeve. The master's gown has an oblong sleeve open at the wrist (some older gowns may be open near the upper part of the arm.) The doctoral gown has bell-shaped sleeves, full-length velvet panels on the front and three velvet crossbars on each sleeve in black, blue, or the color distinctive to the subject of the owner's degree. Gowns for the Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D.) are dark blue and gowns for the Doctor of Education (Ed.D.) are light blue.

HOODS

The hood, draped over the shoulders and down the back, indicates the subject to which the degree pertains and the university that conferred the degree. The level of the degree is indicated by the size of the hood. The velvet binding of the hood is of the color designating the subject of the degree. The satin lining of the hood indicates the university conferring the degree.

CAPS

In the United States, the mortar board is commonly used. The mortar board is black for those receiving a bachelor's degree and silver for those receiving an associate degree. The tassel, fastened to the center of the cap, is normally worn in the left front quadrant of the cap after a degree is conferred. Students receiving undergraduate degrees in the School of Arts and Science wear blue tassels. Students receiving undergraduate degrees in the School of Professional Studies wear red tassels. Students receiving graduate degrees wear white tassels. Students receiving degrees from Cameron University wear light blue tassels. Faculty tassels may be black, gold or the color appropriate to the subject of the degree. The tassel for the doctoral cap may be of gold thread.

HONOR STOLES

Rogers State University Honor Graduates wear stoles, according to the following criteria:

Summa Cum Laude - Blue Stole. 4.0 G.P.A.
Magna Cum Laude - Red Stole. 3.8 G.P.A.
Cum Laude - White Stole 3.6 G.P.A.

Cameron University Honor Graduates wear stoles, according to the following criteria:

Summa Cum Laude 4.0 G.P.A.
Magna Cum Laude . . . 3.8 G.P.A. & in top five percent of graduating class
Cum Laude 3.6 G.P.A. & in next ten percent of graduating class

STUDENT HONOR CORDS

An Honor Cord is traditionally a token consisting of twisted cords with tassels on either end awarded to members of honor societies and academic programs. Sashes, stoles or medallions may be given in place of cords. Unlike hoods and stoles, by tradition more than one cord may be worn at the same time.

CEREMONIAL TRADITIONS

GONFALONS

The gonfalon, a flag that hangs from a crosspiece or frame, originated in the medieval republics of Italy as an ensign of the state or office. Gonfalons have been adopted in many universities around the world as college or institutional insignias.

The two navy gonfalons displayed represent the two academic schools of Rogers State University. The RSU gonfalons and university logo were designed by James Randall Riggs, BA '04.

The third gonfalon represents the Department of Education at Cameron University. It includes a blue bar at the top of the gonfalon, which is the traditional academic color that represents education, and black and gold at the bottom, which are the colors of Cameron University. The book and lamp symbolize a love for learning and the lifelong quest for knowledge. The Department of Education prides itself on preparing future teachers to be caring, competent and committed educators.

The Cameron gonfalon was designed by Ann Morris.

THE MACE

The mace symbolizes the authority of the faculty in academic matters and the practice of shared governance within the university. During the Middle Ages, the mace was an effective weapon in battle. As newer and more powerful arms were developed, its military significance diminished and it was transformed into a symbol of authority. The earliest ceremonial maces were borne by bodyguards of the 12th century English and French kings. By the end of the 16th century, they were used widely by officials of English cities and towns. Today, the use of the ceremonial mace is found in the British Houses of Parliament and it is carried before ecclesiastical dignitaries and in university ceremonies.

MACE BEARER

Carrying the mace has long been a commencement tradition at Rogers State University.

Each year, a veteran faculty member bears the mace. This year, Dr. Hugh Foley, Professor of Fine Arts, assumes this honor.

The mace is a six-foot walnut staff featuring the gold dome of Preparatory Hall at the top and the university seal on four sides. Five stripes at its base signify the institution's various incarnations, including the Oklahoma Military Academy and the present-day university.

The mace was designed by Gary Moeller, Emeritus Professor of Fine Arts, and was crafted by Jerry Emanuel, a Claremore artist.

PIXLEY AWARD

The Pixley Excellence in Education Award is the highest honor bestowed upon a member of the RSU faculty. It recognizes excellence in all areas of faculty accomplishment: teaching, scholarship, creativity and service. The recipient is selected on the basis of a peer nomination and review process conducted by the RSU faculty. The Pixley award is made possible by the Pixley Endowment for Excellence in Education at RSU.

HISTORY OF RSU

RSU was founded in 1909 - two years after Oklahoma was granted statehood. The institution was officially established as Eastern University Preparatory School in Claremore by the Oklahoma Legislature during its second session. The mission of the school was to prepare the sons and daughters of Native Americans, farmers and ranchers for entry into the colleges and universities of Oklahoma.

During the construction of its first building, Preparatory Hall, from 1909 to 1911, classes were held in the Claremont Building in Claremore. Five students graduated at the end of the institution's first academic year. During its second academic year (1910-11), 375 students were enrolled. The institution continued to grow rapidly, adding a library in 1914 and receiving accreditation as a secondary school by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools in 1916. Preparatory Hall housed the operations of the institution until it was closed in 1917.

Two years later, the institution was resurrected as the Oklahoma Military Academy in response to the needs of the United States Armed Forces. By 1923, the Oklahoma Military Academy offered secondary education and two years of college to young men from Oklahoma and across the nation.

The Oklahoma Military Academy has an extensive register of graduates who became great leaders, both in military and civilian life. More than 2,500 OMA graduates served in the Armed Forces of the United States during World War II, the Korean War and the Vietnam War. More than 100 graduates gave their lives in service to their country. OMA quickly gained recognition as one of the top military schools in the U.S., and was often referred to as the "West Point of the Southwest."

In 1971, in response to the growing educational needs of a rapidly developing economy in the Claremore area, the Oklahoma Legislature replaced the Oklahoma Military Academy with the new Claremore Junior College. The mission of the institution was expanded to provide a variety of associate degree programs for area residents.

Claremore Junior College grew from 477 students in 1971 to more than 3,000 in 1982, when the institution was renamed Rogers State

College to better represent the areas it served - Rogers County and the surrounding communities.

As Rogers State College, the institution prospered, adding a variety of academic programs, including the state's only full-power public television station on a college campus in Oklahoma. The institution became a national pioneer in distance education, offering telecourses and independent study options for students.

In 1996, the Oklahoma Legislature approved the merger of Rogers State College and the University Center at Tulsa (UCAT), a consortium of four Oklahoma universities - the University of Oklahoma, Oklahoma State University, Northeastern State University and Langston University. The new institution was named Rogers University and continued operation for two years with branches in Claremore and Tulsa.

In 1998, the Oklahoma Legislature separated the institutions, creating a branch of Oklahoma State University in Tulsa, and Rogers State University, a new regional university with a main campus in Claremore.

The Oklahoma Legislature granted permission for Rogers State University to seek accreditation at the baccalaureate level.

The Higher Learning Commission of the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools formally granted RSU accreditation as a four-year university in August 2000.

RSU celebrated its 100th Anniversary in 2009 with a variety of special events, including guest speakers, a Centennial parade and dedication of the new Centennial Center.

The university operates its main campus in Claremore with additional campuses in Bartlesville and Pryor, along with its nationally recognized online program. RSU has undertaken massive renovations to academic buildings in Claremore, Bartlesville and Pryor, along with improvements to athletic facilities and the construction of new residential housing. RSU enjoys status as the only public four-year, residential university in the Tulsa metropolitan area.

RSU has distinguished itself through its mix of certificate, associate bachelor's and master's degree programs that include cutting-edge degrees in emerging fields. Students also have the opportunity to participate in a variety of unique programs, including the Honors Program, President's Leadership Class, studies-at-large and prestigious internships. In fall 2014, the university expanded its academic offerings to include its first graduate program, a Master of Business Administration. In the fall of 2021, the university's second graduate program, the Master of Science in Community Counseling, enrolled its first cohort.

Today, Rogers State University is widely recognized for its high-quality academic programs, distance learning and high-technology learning environments, all with a personal approach to best serve its students.
